

Recruitment & Vetting Policy

Summary:

Master Class Education (MCE) understand that a professional, ethical, and conscious approach to recruitment is necessary to meet the various requirements of our clients, as well as recruiting for our internal team. Workers are integral to the success of MCE and securing the right talent is essential to the organisational growth and development.

MCE is an education recruitment agency and takes safeguarding very seriously, when recruiting internally our staff are expected to match our safeguarding commitments and values. When recruiting on behalf of a client for an agency role, all candidates will be put through our robust vetting process, more details can be found further on in this policy.

All approaches to recruitment will be consistent, fair and will promote equal opportunities, our agency will recruit the best talent for the required role and ensure that every candidate or applicant is treated with respect and given the same treatment.

Advertising

MCE use various job boards to advertise current vacancies, only approved methods of job advertisement is acceptable, in order to select a new form of advertisement, it must be approved by a manager with relevant permissions.

Only person(s) with authorisation can post job advertisements, all those involved in the recruitment process must have the specific requirements of the role and know any mandatory experience, skills, or qualifications needed. If we are recruiting on behalf of a client, the consultant must fully understand the needs of the client, the role, and characteristics necessary.

All adverts issued, must be clear and concise, and easily understood by the reader, the full name of our agency must be within the advertisement and state whether we are advertising as an agency on behalf of a client or for our internal roles.

An advert may only be issued on behalf of a client if the hirer has provided specific information about the role, and when the hirer has given authority to find work seekers for that particular position.

In advertisements where a rate of pay has been given, the advert must also include the nature of the work, the location at which the work-seeker will be required to work and details of the minimum experience, training, or qualifications that the work-seeker would require in order to receive that rate of pay.

All adverts must be non-discriminatory, neither direct or indirect, any language that is or is perceived to be discriminatory to any protected characteristics (age, gender, race, disability, religion, sex, sexual orientation, pregnancy and maternity, marriage and civil partnership, gender reassignment) will be immediately remove and disciplinary action may be considered.

In some circumstances the directors may waive the need to advertise.

MCE use online advertising portals for advertisement, they are designed to acquire relevant information from applicants, including contact details and employment history and relevant skills, experiences and qualification, this data is used to determine suitability for work. Not all applicants will receive communications to let them know they are unsuccessful, and feedback is not provided to unsuccessful candidates once the closing date has expired applicants will no longer be able to apply.

Shortlisting

The person(s) responsible for recruitment, ideally two or more will assess applicants against the job description, the criteria will be consistently applied and agreed before the shortlisting process begins.

If recruiting on behalf of a client, the recruitment consultant should initially match the applicants experience, skills and qualifications against the specific requirements provided by the client, once they are satisfied that they meet the requirements, the consultant should forward the details of the applicant over to the client, to decide if they want to take any or all the applications forward.

All person(s) involved in the shortlisting process must practice objectivity, be fair and consistent. A work seeker should be match only against their ability to do the specific job, at no point should an applicant be judged for anything other than their attributes to complete the role. A person should never be judged by a protected (and perceived) characteristic.

If a person(s) responsible for shortlisting has a close relationship with an applicant, they must inform a manager or another responsible person(s) of that relationship.

Interviews and trial days

Applicants that have been shortlisted will be invited to interview, the interview panel will consist of the direct manager of the hiring team, a member of the HR department or the director of MCE.

The interview should be structured, guidelines on how applicants will be assessed should be pre-approved and questions be pre-agreed, questions must be relevant to the available role, and in no way unnecessarily exhaustive, invasive, or discriminatory. Questions that are probing or in response to an answer are acceptable.

During the interview the applicant will be asked about their previous employment to identify any anomalies from their application. Safeguarding and criminal records will be discussed.

Every effort should be made to accommodate applicants with disabilities, and all reasonable adjustments made.

When recruiting on behalf of a client for a temporary role the candidate will be asked a structured set of questions, that all MCE temporary applicants are asked, they will also be asked follow on questions that are more relevant to the role they are being put forward for.

Once the MCE consultant is satisfied that an applicant meets all the requirements of their client(s) role and the client has agreed, they may be invited to the school to interview or for a trial day, the candidate and school will agree a time and date. MCE does not pay candidates for any interviews they attend, however if the school pre-agrees, we may be able to secure payment for an attended trial day, this does depend on the client and is at their discretion, the candidate will be informed of the day rate for the trial day before the trial day is agreed, clients will also be informed of any charges being invoiced to them before the trial day is agreed, once all parties accept the day rate, the date and time can be arranged. MCE is under no obligation to match the trial day rate, if the candidate is successful or attends other trial days, a day rate for placement will be agreed with the client and candidate upon successful interview/ trial day.

All applicants, including temporary, permanent, full, and part-time, and an internal work-seekers are protected from prejudice and will all be given equal opportunities.

All data pertaining to interviews will be kept confidential and for 12 months following the interview.

References

Positions offered are subject to satisfactory references.

Internal applicants:

Two references are applied for, they do not need to cover a particular date period, however MCE prefer to get a reference from the most recent employer.

MCE will crosscheck the references against the applicant's employment history, any inconsistencies may be queried.

Referees should be from a professional place of work; they should hold a senior position and the reference will only be accepted from their professional email address.

Character references cannot be supplied by a close friend or relative.

In the case that an applicant registers and provides a copy of a reference, this is not accepted, we will contact the referee for verification.

Temporary applicants:

MCE require applicants to provide a minimum of two references, that cover the last two years of employment, in some cases more than two references may be required to cover the two-year period.

A reference must confirm dates and safeguarding information. If the reference is not coming from an educational setting, where we can collect safeguarding data, the referee should confirm whether they know of any reason that the applicant should not be working in a setting with children.

When the applicant has not been working for 30 days or more within the last two years, they must provide a statement to cover the gap in employment and an older reference will be applied for. If a candidate can only provide details of one referee (i.e. they have only had one employer or they left a job so long ago, it would no longer be relevant) MCE will apply for a character reference.

MCE will crosscheck the references against the applicant's employment history, any inconsistencies must be queried.

Internal audits on temporary workers

Vetting checks are so fundamental to our organisation, it is paramount that every worker MCE supply is fully vetted and cleared for work. MCE complete internal audits on a selection of files on a 6 monthly basis, any file(s) that are not complete, undergo an investigation; any person responsible would be reprimanded. The candidate would be given a specific timeframe to hand in any incomplete documentation until they are removed from their role. In some instances, a worker would need to be removed immediately.

Other useful information

Our government approved DBS umbrella body is Personnel Checks, 161 Whalley Road, Accrington, Lancashire, BB5 1BX.

MCE are charged to process DBS checks, the work-seeker is asked to cover the cost for this.

From time-to-time DBS and other checks are severely delayed, affecting the candidate ability to work and earn a living, MCE must be flexible if process delays continue to compromise trading. However, safeguarding will never be compromised, and clients will always be involved in the delayed vetting processes.

If a worker has been retired on medical grounds by the Department of Education, after the 1st April 1997 then this worker will not be able to teach, even part time as they have been deemed medically unfit. However, if the worker was retired before 1st April 1997, then they may be able to work if they can show that they have the health and physical capacity to teach. They can show they are fit to work by obtaining a GP's letter confirming that they are fit to teach. However, even if they are confirmed as fit to teach, they will only be able to work for 2.5 days per week.

A qualified teacher cannot be employed as a teacher in a relevant school in England unless they have satisfactorily completed an induction period in accordance with the Regulations and this guidance. While ECTs are encouraged to start their induction as soon as possible after gaining qualified teacher status (QTS), there is no set time limit for starting or completing an induction period. An ECT's QTS cannot be lost or affected by the length of time it takes them to complete induction.

There is no legal requirement to satisfactorily complete an induction period if an ECT intends to work solely in the independent sector, an academy, a free school, a BSO, an independent nursery school or an FE institution. However, it may be possible for an ECT to serve a statutory induction period in such settings as set out in this guidance.

A teacher who is employed as a short-term supply teacher (working periods of less than one term). This can only be done during the first five years following the award of QTS. When a teacher who is employed as a short-term supply teacher on a parttime basis but who is concurrently serving induction, the five-year limit (see above) does not apply.

Teachers from outside the United Kingdom who are awarded QTS, having made an application to do so after 1 February 2023, are required to complete induction if they have less than two years' full-time experience when they are awarded QTS.

When conducting Teaching Regulation Agency (TRA) checks on workers, we ensure they have no prohibitions/ restrictions, in the case that a worker does have restrictions MCE will make a referral to the TRA and DBS, to inform them that this person has registered for work-finding services.
